Trustees' Alumna Expands Resume

Ally Cunningham, class of 2009 Trustees' scholar, spends her days working on high-profile environmental cases that take her all over the U.S. "I couldn't ask for a better lawyer job," Ally says, "Every day is a new adventure."

During her time at UMKC, Ally received a bachelor's degree in American Studies and was part of the Honors Program. Following graduation, Ally attended law school at the University of Missouri-Columbia. After passing the bar exam, Ally started as an associate at Lathrop Gage in Kansas City. In 2019, she will begin the process of interviewing for partnership.

"I think one of the major tenets of the Trustees' program is to recruit and retain high-caliber students to study and then stay in Missouri, and hopefully, Kansas City. I like to think that I'm a prime example of that philosophy working perfectly," said Ally.

With opportunities presented through the Trustees' program, Ally was able to engage in networking with Lathrop Gage attorneys early in her career. She currently works with the Environmental and Toxic Torts Practice Group while assisting with class action defense and insurance recovery cases. Ally spends a majority of her time traveling for depositions, witness interviews, court hearings and court appearances.

Ally says spending a lot of time in the field is one of the major perks of environmental law. "I love getting to spend time one-on-one with clients and helping them work through their current challenges, and fortunately, Lathrop Gage has afforded me the opportunity to do just that."

Apart from practicing law, Ally recently started The Tricky Pig, an online boutique.

and continue to do for the Kansas City community to recruit and retain talented students in Missouri. They really are making a difference across our state and it's a model that I hope other universities will consider adopting as well."

Through this creative outlet, she is able to design her own materials and practice entrepreneurship. Moving forward, she hopes to continue expanding her business while balancing her work at Lathrop Gage.

Reflecting on her time as a Trustees' scholar, Ally says, "A huge thanks to the UMKC Board of Trustees for all that they did for me

Lending a Hand in Houston

By: Landon Volkmann, 3rd year scholar, Sponsor: Bill French

Hurricane Harvey struck the American south more than a year ago, but the wreckage left in its wake persists to this day. Tim Nguyen, 1st year scholar, heard the south's cry for help and swiftly answered their call.

Through a small mission group out of Journey Church International, Tim spent a little over a week contributing to the reconstruction of homes in Humble, Texas, just outside of Houston. With so much work to be done, the group formed a plan. Tim explained, "It's like going to Disney World and saying, 'I'm going to four parks in a day' and feeling rushed and tired and not really doing any one part right." Tim said that focusing on one component of one house at a time made a world of difference in what they were able to accomplish.

Not all the support provided was through manual labor, Tim said that they also participated in block parties and soccer games with the families they were helping.

The mission trip provided Tim with an unexpected shift in perspective. "The world is not just where we live in Kansas City, Missouri," he said. He hopes this won't be his last mission trip and, if anything, hopes to dive deeper into this type of service work saying, "I learned the importance of being part of the community, not just someone in the community."

Bayley Brooks,

2nd year scholar, started interning with the Missouri Department of Transportation over the summer and has continued her work this fall. ## Sarah Shin,

4th year scholar, spent her summer on the east coast at the NYU School of Medicine where she worked in an orthopedics lab as part of the Summer Undergraduate Research Program. Sarah conducted experiments with bone marrow stem cells, analyzed the leg bones of mice and heard seminars on fracture healing and regenerative medicine. She also attended the Leadership Alliance National Symposium where she presented her own research and met with students from other organizations. Sponsor: The UMKC Trustees

Helene Slinker,

3rd year scholar, interned with McAnany, Van Cleave and Phillips, a regional law firm that handles workers' compensation, tort liability, employment law and public sector law. # A Trip to Africa

Over the summer, I worked in a small clinic in the village of Kyakuterekera in Uganda, Africa, with a team of interns from the UMKC organization, GlobeMed. While we certainly missed running water and added sugars, we were given the opportunity to contribute everything that we could with the $6,000 we raised over the semester. With that money, we were able to bring a reliable source of power to the clinic and start a reusable pad project for women in the community. Our team of three interns helped provide health education to schools in the region and shadowed physicians at area clinics. Through the experience, I learned the value of our community and our partnership with this health clinic. Building a partnership with the clinic has enabled us to uncover the most effective means to aid them.

I cannot wait to see what the future holds for our partnership, and am thankful to have been afforded the opportunity to be a part of it. Coming home with these life-changing lessons from Uganda, I hope to empower my peers with a passion for serving others both here and abroad.
